Hongrono, December 1st, 1887.

The small measure of representation in the Government granted to Hongkong at the instance of Sir George Bowen is, we note, to be extended to the Colony of the Straits Settlements. The Acting Colonial Secretary has addressed a letter to the Singapore Chamber of Commerce informing them that Sir Croil Smith is in receipt of instructions burst into flome and burned brightly for some from the Secretary of State, which enable time until an engine was sent down which playhim to request the Chamber to nominate a member for the vacancy in the Legislative column, about the same time an outbreak occurred Council which has been occasioned through in Messrs. strong fears are entertained in Germany that peace cannot be much longer preserved. The information given by Reuter is necessarily scanty, but it is often more disconnected than it need be, and important crises are sometimes sprung upon us for which we have no guiding clue. His Excellence-I may say with regard to the Finance Committee, although I ennot definitely lay any plan before the Council I think I see my way very clearly for giving very much greater publicity to the proceedings of the Finance Committee - I won't say at the presen moment absolute publicity, for there may occasions, as there may even be occasion in the Legislative Council, when it is desir able that all strangers should withdraw. It is not absolutely foreign to the House of Commons that strangers should be ordered to withdraw. Therefore I won't say absolute publicity, but think I see my way now to a very much greater publicity, that is to say, if it be approved by the Secretary of State, who has had the matter under his cognisance already, and who would have to be consulted before a change in the practice could be made. With regard to the report of the Finance Committee, I will merely remark on two points, namely, the desirability of connecting the Harbour Office and the Treasury with the telephone exchange. I concur in the have been called for to ascertain the expense. With regard to the working of the Civil Hospital, I have myself had strong reason to doubt satisfactory. With out going into further particulars I may say we have, as you are aware, just got a new surgeon; and the two wardmasters who are responsible for what has occurred are in gaol on a very serious charge. We have as I say, just got a new medical man, who comes with a good reputation, and I must say he has impressed me very strongly with his extreme desire to place things in a better condition, and I think it would be only before we enter on a commission of inquiry,

THE APPROPRIATION BILL FOR 1888. The Council went into committee on the Ap-

I drew attention at this time last year to the very unsatisfactory state of affairs in this colony with regard to interpretation. At the Supreme Court there is really only one competent European interpreter, and all the interpreters at the Magistracyare Chinese. A Commission was appointed to consider the question; and their report was sent up to the Government some little time ago, in which it was strongly recommended that cadets should be trained and that at any rate we should have European interpreters. Hon. A. P. This is a matter I also alluded to at | chants to bring to the notice of the Government | this time last year. I think it would be desir- the desirability of connecting the Harbour Office able that instead of placing all orders required and the Treasury with the Telephone Erchange, unfavourably with prices at home, or if the work able one, and recommend it to the favourable cannot be done so well here as it can be by the consideration of the Government. Crown Agents, it would be desirable to place such orders in the colony. But to refer to a small matter that came under my notice: some cranks were require for the gaol; the requisition was placed before the Finance Committee; and the order was sent home to the Crown Agents. think that is the principle followed in this in Colony, and it would be satisfactory, and support local enterprise if tenders could be called for here for what is required for the Colony instead of being sent to the Crown Agents. I am perfectly certain, and I think the Surveyor-General will bear me out, that through orders being sent home public works have been delayed in consequence of the non-shipment or the long time the various articles have taken to arrive. The Government have no claim upon the Crown Agents ti such cases, whereas if private firms had the order they could be made liable for any delay that might take place. I beg to call your Excellency's attention to the matter. His Excellency-I am not quite prepared to | ticular, in the treatment of patients. answer you on this matter. I only know there has been great difficulty in other colonies in inducing her Majesty's Government to take the view of the hon member. I think it possible ing of the Government Civil Hospital. though that the large mercantile competition in the Colony might in regard to some things after their view. Of course it makes all the difference by large experience, even when prices are equal. what firms are likely to give the best material. They have unquestionable advantages and I have not the least doubt they do their best and get the best value for the money. Still, I have not the least doubt if the Colony could secure equally good things here, and at the same time encourage local mercantile enterprise at the same price or a lower price, it would be a very good thing; but not having in my mind all the considerations which induced the present practice, I cannot say, of course, whether it is at all likely to be in accord with the views of Her Majesty's Government. I only know this, there has been great difficulty in past in inducing Her Majesty's Government to see the matter in the light the hon. member has put it. I know when I was in another colony it was with great difficulty we suc ceeded in obtaining their consent to our getting things from the neighbouring Australian colothe execution of orders. I did, however, succeed likely do no more good than he will be able to in that, and if there are similarly strong reasons do himself. He has impressed me as likely to be here, though of a different kind, Her Majesty's an efficient man; at all events he is a very Government may see their way to make the zealous man. I may say, with regard to one of change. I am sure if I can see my way to getting equally good things at equally low prices and at the same time encourage local enterprise, as far as I am concerned, you will have my support. I suppose you are aware that these commissions the Crown agents get don't go into their pockets at all except in a very indirect way. As far as I understand—I do not say this authoritatively, my memory being treacherous-these commissions all go into a fund from which the pensions to the whole staff of the Crown Avents are paid. They are not Imperial officers, and do not come under the Pensions Act, and the only means of paying their pensions come from these commissions. They are, in fact, regarded as the servants of all the Crown Colonies. The Crown Agents don't benefit one iota themselves. Hon. A. P. MACEWEN-In connection with the vote under the head of military expenditure may I ask is that likely to meet the whole of the expenditure required for the forts? . His Excercency—It is a difficult question and I really cannot say. I believe it is said to be sufficient, but I understand the same thing has been said before and this demand has been spring upon as unexpectedly.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY explained the item under consideration was the ordinary military vote and that the extraordinary expenditure was in another part of the estimates. His Excellency—It may not be exactly in order to speak on this point now, but I do hope and believe we have come to something like finality on the extraordinary expenditure on defence works. If we have another loan and it is seen we have a margin there may be an attempt to get more out of us. The Bill was then read a third time and passed. His Excellency—It has just struck me that something I said just now may be open to misapprehension. It may seem open to criticism that there should be any idea of reducing taxation with reference to works only on one year's estimates, but I have in my mind not only the paying for extraordinary works out of a loan instead of out of the -revenue but also the increased amount we expect from the opium re-

CHANG HING V. W. REYNELL. This was a suit heard on the 25th November for the recevery of $80.60 for provisions supplied by the plaintiff, who was steward on board the British steamer Ashington, to the defendant, master of that vessel.

Mr. Webber appeared for the plaintiff, and sentence. Mr. Wilson (of Messra, Wotton and Beacon's) for the defendant.

Apart from authority I formed the opinion that an agreement such as the one described above, and which appeared to me to be an original and entire contract, was not within the meaning of the Statuteof Frauds, the 4th section of which so far as it relates to this case, was as follows (reads section 4). POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent of delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ----, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally given more trouble in the end.

The Postal Guide for 1857, revised to date will be found in the Daily Press Directory, p. 385 large edition, p. 701 small edition. This is the only authorised complete Summary of Postal information published in Hongkong.

LOCAL DELIVERY—No delivery is attempted on board Ship, at the Peak, Kowloon, Aberdeen, &c., nor at any private house (even though named in the address) when there is a place of business nearer, at which delivery can be effected.

He attached no importance strictures which certain Canadian and American newspapers had thought fit to pass my outside hostile criticism.

He did not intend to return home immedistely after the conclusion of his labors. Having never been in America before, he was, naturally, anxious to see the country and its institutions. He also proposed visiting Canada, and, therefore, did not think he could get back to England until just before the assembling of Parliament

ENGLAND BELIEVED TO APPROVE OF THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

London, October 30th.—The Italian Embassador has had an interview with Salisbury to explain to him the features of the German, Austrian and Italian treaty of alliance. It is probable England will do the alliance, if she does not formally join it. Russia is said to be a subject of uneasiness in Germany, Berlin reports say that the posts along the Russian border have been strengthened and new orders given to Krupp for guns.

The following details are published by the Berlin Tageblett: Last Friday week, the Crown Prince's voice was better than it has been since the commencement of his illness, and the appearance of his throat was satisfactory. A few days afterward his voice became somewhat husky, and the swelling increased so that his Imperial Highness had an uncomfortable feeling in his throat. His doctors instantly sent for Dr. Mackenzie, who, appreciating at once the gravity of the case, immediately called in the German specialist already mentioned for consultation.

The exact nature of the new formation will have to be defined after a microscopi investigation.
